AXSMessenger is live!

Save time and boost efficiency by using AXSMessenger, a chat messenger specifically designed for your business needs. Cut out unnecessary chatter in other messaging systems – focus on finding and chartering vessels.

AXSMessenger is a communication tool that links AXSMarine members from different companies to each other. With it, a broker could, for example, post a message to an owner or another broker about rate ideas his customer has for a certain vessel. When the owner/broker in question carries out a search on that vessel, he would see the message, and be able to respond. The same function of course applies for the broker when receiving the owner's message. All messages about vessels are automatically linked to those vessels in the Vessel Manager search results.

AXSMessenger is an extension to our existing Message Board, and seeing is believing – give it a try with a business partner today!

Announcing AXSDry for small offices

New! AXSMarine now has a subscription package specifically tailored to small brokerage offices with one or two individual users. While many of AXSDry's customers are larger companies with a number of users spread across multiple sites, the suite's inherent flexibility means a 1- or 2-man brokering or chartering team can use it efficiently as well: hence the creation of this special pricing offer designed for one- or two-person firms. This new "light" version of AXSDry allows for an ultra-quick set-up and more importantly, offers significant cost savings over the full-version subscription rates. Users enjoy access to all of our up-to-date databases and can add their own private information to the publicly-available data to obtain a superior but private product.

Contact your usual AXSMarine representative, or reach us by e-mail and MSN Messenger at commercial@axsmarine.com or support@axsmarine.com
